

I have been an XM Radio subscriber for over 18 months and find it to be an outstanding service, not filled by any other media service. I travel a great deal and find the weather and traffic coverage to be especially useful--I can either listen before I leave to get trip planning information or use it while I am in an unfamiliar area.

Please do not succumb to the selfish self-interests of terrestrial broadcasters who are now trying to deny these useful services to XM listeners, especially since they do not provide any comparable service.

Thank you,

John J. Stover
